

Picture Perfect Day For Picture This Rally

by Melissa Forbes

The sun was shining brightly (a great change from previous years!) on May 8th when members of the club gathered for the Picture This Rally III. Attendees were given pictures of various famous bars and restaurants around Indianapolis. They had to identify the locations in the pictures (by any means necessary!), and then visit each location, and answer questions to prove they had been there. The person who did this in the least amount of miles won the rally. Members headed off to famous locations such as the Slippery Noodle, St. Elmo's Steakhouse, the Rathskeller, and the Vogue and some not-so-famous (and sometimes difficult to find) locations as the Melody Inn, the Alley Cat, the Mousetrap, and the Heidelberg Café. Some people headed off right away on their merry way, while others took time to strategically plan their route in the most efficient means possible.

After visiting the locations, everyone met in Broad Ripple at Moe and Johnny's Restaurant, where they welcomed us with free hors d'oeuvres. Don Hill and co-pilot Dave Piper proved that you do not have to be from Indy to do well in a Picture This Rally, as they came in second place! Jay Hofacker and Eric Drumright tied for first place, each running the route in 27 miles. Eric and his co-pilot Ann Cole showed that careful planning is the key to winning, as they were the last to leave the starting location. President Jay used his creative thinking to lower miles by parking in Broad Ripple and walking to all the locations – even the half a mile north to the Stone Mug Café!!

If anyone would like copies of the rally, please contact Melissa, as she has a few extra rally packets.

Photos by Rick Morris

Ann and Eric demonstrate the six 'P' principle, which is "Prior Planning Prevents Pretty Poor Performance"!

Gary uses the Yellow Pages with Rally Master helping.

A city map, a phone book and instructions. What else do you need for this rally?

We don't need no stinkin' map! Wait, where is this place?

Melissa explains to all the drivers her rally rule: "By any means possible!".

Mike and his navigator, Devan "Movie Star" Roth.